GEORGIA COTTON IN PITIFUL STATE AS DROUGHT HOLDS

Northern Part of State
Prays for Rain as South
Portion Sees Excessive
Precipitation Spreading
Havoc of Boll Weevils.

102 TEMPERATURE HERE YESTERDAY

$50,000,000 Crop Damage
Is Estimated by Brown
at State Farm College;
No Rain Forecast Yet.

A dismal outlook for crops in north Georgia and in some sections of south Georgia was reported generally yesterday as temperatures in Atlanta climbed to 102 degrees
during the afternoon.

"No rain in sight" was the monotonous word from George W. Mindling, chief meteorologist of the Atlanta weather bureau, as the reports of devastation of cotton and corn crops came from all sections of north Georgia.

From Athens, Harry L. Brown, chief of the extension division of the State Department of Agriculture, adhered steadfastly to his computation of a $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 crop loss in the state, while farmers from all areas besieged him with complaints his figures were too conservative.

Sticks to Estimate.

"I may be low," said Brown yesterday, "but I will continue my estimate at that figure until I see proof of underestimation."

Georgia's cotton crop is in a pitiful state, Brown admitted. Where the drought has not prevented cotton from appearing in more than a stunted state, other sections of Georgia which had had rains are threatened with boll weevil. Weevils, in excessive dampness and those areas of the state which have had rains are having too much rain.

"Weevils in those regions will have as much trouble with their cotton from the weevils, as farmers in other sections are having from lack of precipitation. The cotton outlook of Georgia this year is dismal."

Slight Relief Today.

Meanwhile, Atlanta's Forester Mindling saw for today only slight relief from the excessive heat. Partly cloudy skies today are expected to check temperatures this afternoon at the 92 degree mark, after a start this morning at 72 degrees, or possibly a trifle higher.

"The 100-degree weather we had today," said Mindling yesterday, "is not excessive. In Atlanta and north Georgia we can expect high tem-

Heat of 110 Degrees Reported in Alaska

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, June 17.—(AP)—Temperatures as high as 110 in the sun were reported in Alaska today, and a wide area of the far north continued to experience unusual heat.

Seward, which reported an unofficial maximum of 108 yesterday, turned in the 110 figure this morning. A Seward dispatch asserted the official thermometer registered 85 in the shade.

SEN. RICHARD B. RUSSELL JR.

RUSSELL TO SEEK RETURN TO SENATE

Necessary Papers Forwarded to Atlanta by Georgia's Junior Senator.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—With the action of the state democratic executive committee in fixing a closing date for entries in the Georgia primary, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. today formally announced his candidacy for re-election.

The standing vote was taken on a senate amendment to the $2,370,000 deficiency bill authorizing a new study of the canal and a continuation of the project if a board of engineers should report favorably.

Tax Bill Accord.

Under the new proposal, upon which the treasury was asked for estimate of revenue, the normal corporation tax would range from 8 per cent to 15 per cent, with a surtax on undistributed corporate income ranging from 6 or 7 per cent to 27 per cent.

The conferees, seeking to reconcile house and senate differences over the tax legislation, were more optimistic over the prospects of an agreement that would permit congress to adjourn Saturday.

Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, of the house conference, said he thought the widely divergent tax programs of the senate and house were being brought into closer proximity.

Elected in 1932, Senator Russell took his seat at the beginning of the Roosevelt administration and early identified himself as one of the staunchest supporters of the democratic president. In view of his training, gained from long service in the Georgia assembly, of which he was speaker, he has been highly successful in effecting passage of any number of important legislative proposals having a state as well as national Asks Indorsement.

"While serving the unexpired term of the late lamented Senator William J. Harris, I have earnestly sought to make Georgia a acceptable senator and ask a full indorsement at their election."

TALMADGE TO SUPPORT NOMINEES OF PARTY

Nominations will be formally passed upon.

Governor Talmadge, appearing disturbed by a resolution sent to the committee by Newt Morris, Chairman of the Macon delegation, that he and Chairman Hugh Howell "get in line," "get into line" with Roosevelt or resign from the body," Talmadge said:

"All entry fees for the primary are to be paid to Mrs. Roan by 11 a. m. Atlanta, or by 4 p. m. June 23, of the state capital," Atlanta.

The fee for statehouse officers, including supreme court justices and appellate court judges was fixed at $100 each; for lieutenant governor, superior court judges and solicitors general, $125.

The assessments for congressional candidates are to be paid to the congressional district democratic committees while the method of qualifying those seeking seats in the legislature is left with the senatorial and county committees.

Committees also provide that in event of death of any candidate who has qualified between the date of the closing of entries and 15 days prior to the primary day, the lists are to be re-opened to other aspirants for five days.

A number of last-minute changes were made in the rules of Philadelphia as first made public from Washington. Marion Allen, the Roosevelt campaign manager for Georgia, sought to get a delegation certain to make the trip.

Chairman Howell, under the rules, has the right to fill any vacancies that might occur.

'GRASS ROOTS' PARLEY SATIRIZED BY MORRIS

Judge, in Speech Before State Committee, Recalls Liberty League Gift.

A resolution by Judge Newt A. Morris, of Marietta, calling on Governor Talmadge and State Chairman Hugh Howell to "get in line" with President Roosevelt, or get out of the resolutions committee, although he had pledged his support to the democratic nomination of the state committee at yesterday's meeting that body at the Ansley hotel.

"When the Governor and chairman of this committee want to run for public office in Georgia," Morris said, "they fit their entrance fee at $100. These same men charged the greatest heretic in Atlanta that ever lived—President Roosevelt—an outrageous fee of $10,000 to enter the Georgia primary."

There were boos and cat-calls.

"I listened intently to the reading of the rules for the party primary, Talmadge told the committee.

"I want to say here and now that I will not be a party to the rules whether or not I am a candidate for anything under the sun."

"My good friend Judge Morris, and I say friend because he is my friend, knows where I stand."

"In Monkey."

"I am sorry to say, however, there are a number of people who feel that to live in the party they have to be a tin monkey."

"There's to be some sort of a primary at Macon tomorrow, so I understand."

the Governor for furtherance of his newspaper.

"If the people nominate someone, whether I even speak to him or not, I will support him and go up and shake hands with him. I am a 100 percent democrat, but I think that the ticket can what I feel when I feel like it."

The Governor's speech was broken time and again by applause and shouts of "You tell 'em, Gene."

The committee adopted a resolution by Mrs. Eleanor Orr Roan, the secretary, indicating Chairman Howell's conduct in the convention.

Another resolution approved passed all county contests and those that may arise later over to the Macon convention.

"Crashfish Business."

"It also developed that when the real show down confronted you and the Governor, and the friends of President Roosevelt entered his name in the presidential preferential primary to be held, that the Governor, together with his self-appointed henchman No. 1, his brothers on their legs, refused to enter the primary, and out-crawfished any crawfish since the days of Adam and Eve. It is claimed that this crawfish business, so conspicuously displayed by you and the Governor, did not set well with the Liberty Leaguers, and they are now threatening to file suit for the recovery of this money, on the ground that the same was obtained under false pretense and false representations."

"In view of this enormous expense that is necessary for you and the Governor to attend this convention at Macon, and in view of the further fact that your allies, the Liberty Leaguers and Old-line republicans have gotten their Irish up over this matter, don't you think it advisable to hold the next convention at Atlanta?"

Warns on Reservations.

"However, if you cannot play the crawfish stunt on this convention program, let me suggest that the Governor and his self-appointed henchman No. 1, both of whom are so cocksure that they are going to attend that convention that they make reservations for various rooms in which they will be staying during the convention, like you did in reserving large, expensive rooms to attend the Philadelphia democratic national convention. If you do, when the voters get through with you, you will probably have another bunch of hotel rooms to dispose of."

"Let me further remind you that the entrance fee fixed in the resolution offered where you and the Governor will both be candidates is quite different from the $10,000 fee required of President Roosevelt to enter the state primary. This is illustrative of the story in the old blueback speller: 'It is owing to whose ox is gored.'

candidates for the approval of the gathering having 10 votes on the first ballot will be carried over to the second.

On the third it will be necessary for a candidate to have 30 votes and afterward the low man will be eliminated until one person receives the majority of the votes. This man would receive the backing of those present in the governor's race.

As Yet Nameless.

Welman's organization, as yet nameless, was formed among democrats in various parts of the state dissatisfied with the present status of Georgia government.

Some political leaders attacked the movement, charging it was an effort to "hand pick" a candidate for governor, and saying it was unnecessary under Georgia's political system.

Began in Atlanta.

The movement began several months ago when Welner inserted small advertisements in each of the daily newspapers in the state, urging citizens to "name the right man" for governor of Georgia and to "select somebody hunting the job."

Fresh in Memory.

"I notice that the resolution offered calls for the state convention to be held at Macon," Judge Morris said. "I am wondering if it is not advisable to change the place of holding that the next convention in Atlanta. I am sure that the last convention held in Macon is still fresh in the memory of both the Governor and the Governor. I have reference to the 'Grass Roots' convention, better known as the 'Flop' convention, that was dabbled by you and Governor Talmadge."

A number of prominent residents hunting the job have become interested in the movement.

Forson to Keynote.

Judge Forson, mentioned in some quarters as a possible candidate, will deliver the keynote address to tomorrow's convention. The address will be broadcast from 11:30 a. m. (Atlanta time) to 12:15 p. m., over station WSB, Atlanta.

Welner reached Macon last night to make preliminary arrangements for setting up committees on platform and rules, met tonight, following a meeting of the organization's executive committee.

Committees on finance and credentials will meet Thursday morning before the convention starts.

In City Auditorium.

The convention will meet in the same city auditorium where the "Grass Roots" convention sponsored by Governor Talmadge was held earlier in the year. The "grass roots" meeting, which endorsed Talmadge for president was somewhat of a political novelty. But the officials said the Welner meeting was the first of its kind ever held in Georgia, since it is the outgrowth of the idea of one man, not an officeholder, who got the organization going by his own force.

Dan Magill, of Athens, who has been managing the recently opened headquarters of the Welner organization in Atlanta, said today 1,296 delegates from 141 counties have been issued credentials. A number of counties held mass meetings last night to name delegates, and they will be issued credentials tomorrow, Magill said.

Rules Adopted for Primary

The rules for the democratic state primary in September as adopted by the state democratic executive committee here yesterday follow in full:

That a democratic primary election be held on Wednesday, September 9, 1936, in each of the counties of this state for the selection of candidates of the democratic party for the following offices:

Attorney, Lieutenant Governor, United States senator, attorney general, secretary of state, comptroller general, state treasurer, commissioners of agriculture, state agriculture, state public service, commissioners of commerce and labor, prison commissioners, state court, commissioners, judges of the court of appeals, state commissioners of the superior courts, respectively; to select capable manufacturers for conducting said election; to furnish the names of all persons qualified to be elected to said primary, and to constitute a plenary power to the said committee to support the nominees for all offices.

III.

It shall be the duty of the democratic state executive committee to select several committees and especially the chairman thereof, to select and properly advertise place or places for the primary election, to have the names of all candidates for all offices to be voted on this year, are hereby declared qualified to vote in said primary, and to act as election officials in said primary, and to constitute a plenary power to the said committee to support the nominees for all offices.

IV.

Candidates for supreme and all other statehouse offices, including justices of the supreme court and appellate court judges, who receive respectively the highest number of votes in each of the various congressional districts, shall be declared the democratic nominees to have carried that county and entitled to the full vote of such county on the county basis in the convention hereinafter described, and no other or third party candidates shall be entitled to the highest number of popular votes received in any county, the names of which primary offices shall be voted on in each of the various congressional districts, respectively, to select managers to appear in primary election, and to make all necessary blanks and tickets, and to make all other necessary arrangements for holding such primary election, and to furnish the names of all persons to be nominated or which may be nominated or which may be included.

The primary election shall be conducted by the state democratic executive committee at least 10 days before the election.

30 Shifts in 15 Busy Chicago Blocks

REPORTER KEITH STARTS FROM UNION STATION

William K. Keith, Crack Reporter for the Chicago Tribune, Saw a Story in Today's "Shift" Dripping! Starting at Chicago's Union Station, He Kept Track of the Number of His Stops and Gear Shifts.

HEAVY TRAFFIC LIKE THIS ALL THE WAY

A Great Deal of the Time He Was in Second Gear. Here are Typical Stops That Reporter Keith Made: 5 Traffic Jams, 3 Traffic Lights, 2 Traffic Officers. He Counted 30 Shifts . . . 10 Complete Stops.

And in Atlanta, too, 4 out of every 5 miles you drive are "STOP-and-GO"

EVERWHERE TODAY, your driving is shift-shift-shift! Because of traffic . . . and because 80% of your driving is in short rides . . . shopping, business calls, visiting friends.

Shifting gears is expensive! In "second" your engine turns 9 times for every revolution of your wheels . . . while in "high" it turns only 4 1/2 times!

For economy in "stop-and-go" driving, you need a gasoline with 3 kinds of power (just as your car needs 3 shifts) . . . one for quick starts, one for fast pickup, one for economical running.

Super-Shell combines these 3 different kinds of power in one fuel—THE FIRST TRULY BALANCED GASOLINE!

Super-Shell is sold at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell stations from coast to coast.

GARDEN INSTITUTE TO BE HELD IN ATHENS

Sessions To Open Today at University and Run Through Friday.

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—(P)—Several hundred garden lovers are expected at the University of Georgia tomorrow and Friday to hear their problems discussed by leading authorities.

The event will be the first institute of gardeners and garden clubs, which has been arranged by the Garden Club of Georgia. Dr. T. H. McHatton, head of the university's horticulture department, will direct the program.

President Harmon Caldwell will welcome the visitors tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Donald Hastings, of Atlanta, president of the Garden Club of Georgia, will respond.

Program features will follow on all phases of gardening. Chief speakers will be Miss Alice Carson, of Greenwich, Conn., and A. H. Hadley, of the University of Georgia general extension service. Members of the university will meet other talkers.

The institute will be one of six conferences planned during the university's summer quarter. Clubwomen, parents and teachers, educators, recreational workers and doctors and citizens interested in public health will meet during the next few weeks.

SUSPECT IN LOTTERY NABBED AFTER CHASE

An alleged lottery "pickup" man who handed five lottery ticket books to a 9-year-old boy before making a brief dash to escape capture yesterday afternoon found it was all of no avail.

Louis Smith, 41, negro, of an Iris street address, fled after placing the lottery books in the hands of Bennett Davis, 9, negro, of a Georgia avenue address, where he was approached by Detectives John Cranshaw and J. B. King, at the corner of Welch and Stephens street, police reports state.

Smith was captured after a short chase and is being held by police on charges of "disorderly conduct, lottery, while the boy is being detained at the juvenile home as a material witness.

PUTNAM COUNTY LAND IS ADDED TO PROJECT

Government Increases Acreage in East Georgia Plantation Plan.

EATONTON, Ga., June 17.—(P)—

The federal government brought its land holdings under the plantation Piedmont project in Putnam, Jasper and Jones counties to about 30,000 with the addition of several large tracts in the three counties.

Land under the plantation Piedmont project is being taken out of cultivation.

Eagle Rock, an assembly of rocks created by legend to a race which the Indians called the "Devils," is located on the land owned by the government and plans have been advanced to convert the site into a national park.

Carl Vinson, member of congress, introduced a bill to have the federal government bring the "Resettlement Administration" to pay the counties which the project is located the equivalent of the advalorem taxes on the land.

The total amount of the lands to be bought in the three counties is 125,000 acres, with 50,000 to be bought in Putnam county, a similar acreage in Jones county and the balance in Jasper county.

Frank Leverette is in charge of the project here. Telephone lines are being erected and fire towers constructed.

NEGRO BISHOP DIES

AT HOME NEAR PLAINS

PLAINS, Ga., June 17.—(P)—W. C. Sutton, state master of the African American Methodist Episcopal church. During his life he had been bishop over districts including the states of California, Washington, Oregon, Oklahoma, Idaho, Nevada, Montana, Wyoming, Texas and Mississippi, and British Columbia in Canada.

Bishop Johnson was born in Thomasville and reared in southwest Georgia. He had resided in Plains for 24 years and had been in the ministry for 50 years. He was born at St. Louis in 1920; was secretary of National Conference of African American Methodist Episcopal church for last 20 years. Two of his brothers are preachers.

Bishop Johnson founded the Johnson Industrial College of Webster county, four miles west of here.

He died last night in a hospital here, his wife, Anna Thornton, of Dalton, Ga., who was struck by an automobile driven by Murphy on June 9.

A damage suit of $10,000 is still pending.

PEACH PACKING SHED DESTROYED AT MADRAS

MADRAS, Ga., June 17.—(P)—The peach packing shed here, owned by Fred H. Arnold, of Newnan, was destroyed by fire today, the origin of which has not been determined.

The shed, containing two peach graders, other machinery, many crates and material, was valued at between $4,000 and $5,000.

Mr. Arnold was preparing to begin shipping peaches and the loss of the building will greatly inconvenience him.

ALLEGED MURDERER ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Ill., June 17.—(P)—

Two negroes, one of whom had been serving two years in prison for the killing of a white man, were held yesterday morning in Chicago, a suspect listed as Will Lovejoy, 38, negro, of Atlanta.

Detective Richard Englebert, of the homicide squad, will leave this morning for the Illinois city to return the prisoner to this city.

According to police records, Lovejoy has been sought since February 1, 1934, when C. T. Thomas, 60, negro, of Dallas, was shot three times and fatally wounded at Myrtle and Inman streets.

The truck was placed in the garage June 5, according to garage attendants, and was camouflaged as a tobacco truck. The vehicle, with its load of 67 cases of assorted liquors and gins, was confiscated.

GARAGE BURGLARIZED BY PAIR OF HI-JACKERS

ATLANTA, Ga., June 17.—(P)—

Liquor deliveries were halted in one instance early yesterday morning when a patrolman found two men engaged in removing whisky from a truck in a garage on 12th street.

The officers was attracted to the scene by the sound of breaking glass and found one man placing the cases in a truck while the other was handing the liquor out through the broken glass of a window in the garage.

The truck was placed in the garage June 5, according to garage attendants, and was camouflaged as a tobacco truck. The vehicle, with its load of 67 cases of assorted liquors and gins, was confiscated.

MEETING DATE SET FOR POSTMASTERS

Bank at Canton Orders That Regular Dividend Be Distributed.

THOMASTON, Ga., June 17.—(P)—Georgia members of the National League of District Postmasters will hold their annual convention here June 24-25.

Mr. L. Bertie Rushing, of Glennville, state president, has announced that Louis Brechin, clerk in charge of fourth class section, Division of Post Masters, and E. A. Meeks, national secretary, both of Washington, will be on the program.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., June 17.—(P)—Speaking to a representative gathering of the county postmasters here, W. W. Larsen, former congressman and candidate for Governor, lauded the policies of the New Deal, praised President Roosevelt, and appealed for "unity of democracy in Georgia." He criticized Ed Rivers' highway patrol proposal as "ridiculous" and "unwise."

The bonds were one of the highest ever imposed here for lottery accusations. The suspects were listed as A. H. Wood, 32; W. L. Carter, 35; and Miss Margaret Jones, 23. Wood also was a state legislator.

Arresting police reported they found a revolver, police badges and lottery paraphernalia in the hotel rooms.

25,000 WORKERS USED IN STATE PWA WORK

$14,500,000 Projects Have Been Approved for Georgia Since 1933.

Approximately 25,000 Georgians have been given employment by the Public Works Administration and 160 projects costing about $14,500,000 have been approved for them since the program began three years ago according to a statement yesterday by J. Houston Johnston, state director. PWA celebrated its third anniversary Tuesday.

Bids on three projects were opened at noon yesterday in the office of the head of representation in the state capital. These projects are a $93,000 auditorium for Georgia Tech; a $91,000 science building for the University of Georgia, and a $30,000 auditorium and gymnasium at the South Georgia State College at Douglas.

Other projects which have been awarded include 96 educational projects, ranging from small elementary schools to large university buildings; 57 waterworks and sewer systems, six hospitals, six courthouses, 15 jails and eleemosynary institutions and 14 miscellaneous municipal projects.

Various engineering firms in Georgia have been employed in the work. The projects have given business to 127 general contractors with headquarters in the state, and 285 separate general contractors and more than 350 sub-contractors have been awarded.

Various projects approved under the 1933 program have been completed, according to the director, while about 40 under the 1935 program will have been completed by July 15.

3 NABBED BY POLICE IN CROSS-PARK CHASE

A cross-country race was staged during the early morning hours yesterday by two policemen and four boys who used the grass-covered and wooded hills of Grant park for their race course.

Patrolmen McEwing and Tuxworth reported they saw the four youths climbing out of a window of one of the concession stands at the park and gave chase on foot. After several blocks, the youths were captured, involving the loss of some little time and weight—to the patrolmen, three of the boys were captured.

The suspects were turned over to juvenile detention home authorities and were listed as George Itson, 15, of Birmingham, and Fred Davis, 15, and Henry Warren, 15, who gave no address.

MRS. CORA RIVES DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

Mrs. Cora Rives, long-time resident of Atlanta, and wife of the late J. D. Rives, prominent architect, died yesterday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Roy Y. Sanders, of 1000 Forrest road.

She had been in failing health for a number of years and was 73 at the time of her death. Rives was the daughter of the late Professor S. F. Parks, president of Hiwassee College, N. C., and leading educator.

Besides Mrs. Sanders, surviving are another daughter, Mrs. P. M. Nomme, of El Paso; a son, R. R. Rives, of Jacksonville; a sister, Mrs. Viola Lovett, of Grant View, N. C.; Mrs. R. H. Atkinson, of Atlanta, and several grandchildren.

Final rites will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the chapel of Avery & Lowndes with Dr. Louis D. Newton officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

REPUBLICAN DISCONTENT

The republican platform is satisfactory in part, but seriously inadequate as a program for progressive reform, in the opinion of the United States News, of Washington, edited by David Lawrence and strongly critical of the New Deal.

While holding that the platform is
"on the whole in conformity with tradition and in consonance with the prevailing thought on several current questions," Editor Lawrence holds that—

The platform, nevertheless, is far from satisfactory as a program for progressive reform of our politically controlled institutions. Rather does the platform surrender to group pressure and to the narrowness of the economic isolationists. It rejects with arrogant aloofness an enlightened policy of international co-operation which must some day save America as well as the few remaining democracies of the earth from the ravages of regimentation and its inevitable companion—dictatorship.

The orators prated about "saving America," but the only resolute-ness that of Governor Landau and his inexperienced spokesmen who were thwarted in the platform committee by the masterful graduates of that university of political intrigue sometimes referred to as the United States Senate.

The entire platform is permeated with the principle of isolation. It would, in effect, build another economic wall around the United States, such as was erected by the Hawley-Smoot bill which contributed so disastrously to the worldwide depression.

Certainly the economic wreckage brought on by that infamous, grab-bag act should have been sufficient to convince the republican high protectionists that it is folly to expect the world to buy our surplus commodities and materials if we refuse to let other nations dispose of their surpluses in America.

Discontent with the platform is also expressed by the staunchly republican New York Herald-Tribune, which feels that—

The platform which came out of the resolutions committee was dis-hearteningly far below the ideal set by the preliminary draft. It was neither brief, candid nor focused on essentials. The supposedly hard-headed ex-senators who insisted on a soft-money plank, in which they did not believe, on the theory that it would catch votes, did about as bad a day's work for their party as we can recall. The draft of their subcommittee was as full of weaselswords
as it was of irrelevances.

Already republican encouragement resulting from the staged enthusiasm and synthetic unity of the Cleveland convention has begun to disappear, and even the most die-in-the-wool members of the party are realizing that little short of a political miracle will bring success to their efforts in the fall elections.

The convention was the first chapter in the period of shadow boxing by the republicans to begin the reconstruction of their party for a show-down fight in 1940. If the new leadership selected at Cleveland makes a creditable showing, then it will begin the permanent reconstruction of the party.

If it does not, some other tack must be taken—and that what will be only time can tell.

Sometimes the "Men at Work" warning on the high road has all the connotations of a "quiet" card on the wall of a sleeping car.

A noted designer of women's hats has just been found insane, and no one will say the alienists didn't take their time.

With the coming of the automobile, rural electric lines, the radio
and other comforts and luxuries
formerly enjoyed only by city
dwellers, farm life should extend an increasingly greater attraction to both old and young.

It is likely something special in decorations will have to be awarded

Marshal Badoglio—probably the order of the balcony, lower level.

Count Dino Grandi, Italian envoy to London, wears clothes made of waste milk. Obviously the next development must be a two-pints suit.

DUNCAN U. FLETCHER
In the death of Senator Duncan
U. Fletcher the state of Florida loses a constructive and able leader and the nation a statesman whose public service was marked by a rare devotion to the highest principles.

Senator Fletcher was a native
Georgian, having been born at Americus and received his early education in the schools of Monroe county and at Gordon Institute, Barnesville.

The unusual esteem in which Senator Fletcher was held by his colleagues in the senate is attested by the warmth of their tributes to his ability and his high principles.

Democratic Leader Robinson was among the first to express his regret, saying that "during my service here has never been one more beloved, nor has there been in the service of his state or the nation
one more devoted to high standards of duty and service." While President Roosevelt expressed the opinion that "the country has lost an able and conscientious servant
in his death."

Seldom has a state lost both of its senators through death in the same year, but this has been Florida's misfortune twice. Senator Park Trammell died recently and in 1907 both Senators Bryan and Malony died.

Florida will name two new senators in the elections this fall. It will be difficult for the voters of the state to select two as able and conscientious men as Senators Fletcher and Trammell.

OUR REPOPULATED FARMS

Pointing out that "one of the most important but least understood factors in agriculture is the shift in farm populations and the rise and fall in the number of farm units in different sections," the committee on agricultural co-operation of the National Association of Manufacturers in a recent statement stresses the significance of the increase of 523,702 farms in the years from 1930 to 1935.

Of even greater significance as bearing on the economic welfare of the country are the sectional changes that have occurred during the past quarter of a century in our farm population.

It is reported that from 1910 to 1930 the number of farms west of the Mississippi increased by 294,- 465, while during the same period the number east of the Mississippi decreased by more than 331,000.
This decrease represented a fifth of all the farms in the states in the eastern half of the United States.

During the past five years, however, the increase in farms has been in the states east of the Mississippi
leading the west by some 30,000 units.

While the total number of farms in the country is now ahead of those existing in 1910, the figures being 6,812,000 to 6,361,000, this increase does not extend to farm population.
The probable reason for this is that 25 years ago the young people as a rule stayed on the farm, while of late years the lure of city life has attracted thousands of them away from the soil.

Thus the average farm family is now smaller than it was a quarter of a century ago, because of the desertion of the farm home by the younger members of the farm families.

The increase during the past five years in farms in the north and east is particularly striking because of the reversal in the revealed trend away from the farm of former years. In the states west of the Mississippi there was an increase of 292,465 farms from 1910 to 1930, with an increase of only 169,450 in the following five years.
In the states east of the Mississippi
and south of the Ohio the decrease of 33,679 farms in the 20 years following 1910 was followed by an increase of 163,670 farms, while in the states east of the Ohio the 331,640 decrease was somewhat offset by the 190,582 increase in the last five years.

At least one beneficial result of the years of depression has been the repopulation of the farms of the states in every section of the country. Especially is this true in the south, the farming population of which was seriously depleted by the exodus to the industrial centers of the north and east during the boom years.

These returned farm families will bring a message to those that stayed at home that should arouse more general realization that there is more opportunity for contentment, security and independence on the farm than in the great centers of population.

With the coming of the automobile, rural electric lines, the radio
and other comforts and luxuries
formerly enjoyed only by city
dwellers, farm life should extend an increasingly greater attraction to
both old and young.

It isn't the original cost of a war,
Benito—it's the upshot.

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Paris Remains
Calm.

I would dare to wager that the strike in the automobile industry in Paris and in Boulogne-Billancourt made us assume the appearance of a bolshhevik revolution in certain sections of the American press. In itself, the strike is a good-natured business, which is almost unobserved in Paris itself. The strikers sit in the factories and pretend to hold them against any cold-blooded robbery. They are not on the doors, nor cudgels on the heads of the men. Negotiations are going forward between the union leaders, the owners and the government.
Nobody thinks of violence and since the police have been ordered to stand aloof, everything is passing off very quietly. I would like to write a hair-raising story about the matter and frighten the wits out of the ordinary citizen by hinting that this is the beginning of bolshevism. And some clever boys, no doubt, cannot resist
this temptation.

A Visitor
Departs.

Francis W. Clarke, the genial editorial writer of The Constitution, has come and gone, without my seeing him in Europe, alas. He sailed back on the giant Cunarder Queen Mary and has, no doubt, given a glowing report of that arduous passage across the ocean. It must have been a wonderful experience, and yet in the end, for a real sea trip, for a taste of the salt and a little touch of danger, I would prefer to cross for once on the old three-master. I never had a better time than when I sailed the Mediterranean, some years ago, on the French tramp. We had a knife-fight on board every night, and upon landing in Piraeus half the crew were arrested for smuggling. Dinner was not always served on time and I cannot say that I enjoyed quite as much French food. But you were in suspense and agitation from the moment you sat foot on board till the final bump against the quays.

Promise to Jews and Arabs.

A statement is often made in these days of tension in Palestine and believed by many, though without justification, that we have promised to the Jews and Arabs to give them what we promised Syria and Palestine to the Arabs, and that all they got was a French mandate and a Jewish national home.

Two promises were made in the war—one to the Arab people, the other to the Jewish people. The Arabs were promised freedom from Turkish rule in parts of the Ottoman empire; the Jews were promised a national home in Palestine. Both promises were made publicly; both have been fulfilled. The Arabs have independent Arab states in Arabia and Transjordan, and are ruled under the League of Nations in Syria and Palestine. The Jews have a national home in Palestine.

The joke, of course, is that the money was not given outright.
It came in the form of advertising purchased in that book, "The Book of the Democratic National Convention," but it came nevertheless.
The democrats have raised the astounding total of $336,000 through their book. The largest industry represented among the "advertisers" is that of distillers and brewers. They gave about $67,875.

NEWCOMER The last gasp is that the United Mine Workers, the labor organization of John L. Lewis, appeared as a campaign contributor to the same New Deal cause alongside United States Steel.

Mr. Lewis bought $5,000 worth of "advertising" for his labor union in the democratic convention book. Furthermore, he purchased enough copies of the book to cost him $1,250 more.

The largest purchase was listed as "The Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau, Inc.," which is down for $2,500 worth. Its purpose possibly is to grum up the books and make nitrates out of them.

APATHY The republican report was the only one which showed an utter dearth of imagination. It listed a stack of $1 contributors three inches high, and apparently held down contributors to $5,000 each. However, just to prevent the rule from being too restrictive, the Rockefellers I, II and III, were permitted to give $5,000 apiece, and Lawrence Rockefeller gave $1,000, which brought the Rockefeller family up to a respectable $16,000. However, there are more Mellons than Rockefellers. Five of the Mellons gave $5,000 each, which kept them on top of the republican finance register.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

FINANCE

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Newly discovered methods of high political finance were contained in the latest campaign expenditures reports to congress.

Most sensational is that of the Good Neighbor League. Apparently it has become a Delaware corporation, capitalized, for some reason or other, at $100,000. The assets are to be the indisputable fact that it is doing the best pamphleteering promotion job for President Roosevelt's re-election. Its chief liability seems to be the uniqueness of its double-entry bookkeeping.

IN-AND-OUT The only substantial contributor to the Good Neighbor League, Inc., was Dr. Stanley High, the President's new idea man. Dr. High donated $6,000 to the league up to May 31 (the period covered by the report). Then, as now, he was the president of the corporation as well as originator and sole inspiration.

But, while being all these things, Dr. High was also the largest item in cost of his league, the record shows. While he was putting in $6,000, he was taking out much of it in salary at $300 per week, or $15,600 per year.

This undoubtedly makes the Good Neighbor League, Inc., one of the few corporations in the history of business whose chief source of revenue was also its greatest object of expenditure.

FRILLS

Not only that, but the league also, disclosed some of the semblances of being a holding company. Its second largest contribution was a loan of $2,000, advanced to it on May 6 by the democratic national committee, the security and interest rate of which are not mentioned.

Also it appears to have adopted some features of an interlocking corporation, because Dr. High seems to have some official connection with the democratic national committee, other than that of banker and client.

At least he is listed among the committee's smaller expenditures as having received $40 on April 3, the day after he donated $2,500 to his league. The $40 item is marked "to be accounted for."

These things certainly indicate that the bookkeeper of the League, Inc., requires a two-pants suit, or must wear an overcoat in summer, to provide enough pockets to keep the right money in the right pocket.

Another justifiable confusion from the record is that, so far, the only two losers in this unusual venture are Dr. High and the democratic national committee.

Note—Noticeable activities of the league so far include the issuance of two booklets about the size of the Reader's Digest. One is entitled

"Boondoggling," and contains explanations of certain boondoggling projects which have been laughed at generally, and the other bears the title, "The Case Against Franklin D. Roosevelt," and presents the case for him. The league also issues "The Roosevelt Record," a tabloid weekly. The booklets are on expensive paper and contain the best art of any political publications.

GASPS Some of the new campaign financing discoveries do not make sense, or at least not as much sense as money. For instance, you will need smelling salts after learning that the United States Steel Corporation gave $5,000 to the New Deal cause. Equally preposterous is the fact that the United Fruit Company gave $5,000 and the Chicago packers, Armour and Swift, $7,500.

The joke, of course, is that the money was not given outright.

It came in the form of advertising purchased in that book, "The Book of the Democratic National Convention," but it came nevertheless.

The democrats have raised the astounding total of $336,000 through their book. The largest industry represented among the "advertisers" is that of distillers and brewers. They gave about $67,875.

'MEANEST MAN' SLAIN IN BEER PARLOR FIGHT

BROCKHAVEN, Miss., June 17.—(AP)—One man was dead today and two others wounded as the result of a pistol duel started in a beer parlor after one of them shouted he was Lincoln county's "meanest man."

Officers said Alex Bullock, 70-year-old farmer, walked into the beer parlor, yelled he was the "meanest man in Lincoln county," and started firing a pistol.

Bullock was killed when Natty Blackwell, 30, returned the fire. Blackwell was shot in the abdomen and leg. Walter Blackwell, operator of the beer parlor, had a finger shot off.

42 SEEKING ADMISSION AS LAWYERS IN STATE

Forty-two persons, including two young women, will take the Georgia bar examinations June 26 before Judge Virgil B. Moore, of Fulton county superior court; it was announced yesterday by J. Walton Simmons, court clerk, with whom applications are filed.

Among the group are R. B. Thomas, son of Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court; Eusebio Casiano, of Porto Rico; Calvin Castlon, attorney for the city of Atlanta; Jack C. Savage's office; Horace A. Moore, attached to Judge Hugh Dorsey's division of superior court.

But the spotlight will be held by two young women who seek admission.

Miss Virginia Cox, who studied with the firm of Barrett & Null, of which Mrs. Cox is a partner, will be the senior member, and Miss Virginia Alice McGrath, who studied at the San Francisco University, are the women.

DOCTOR OF LETTERS CONFERRED ON LEWIS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 17.—(AP)—Sinclair Lewis, novelist whom Yale honored today with an honorary degree of doctor of letters, smiled broadly as he approached his journalist, author wife, Mrs. Dorothy Thompson Lewis.

"Hello, doctor," he said. Mrs. Lewis was given a similar degree as that bestowed upon Lewis by Tufts two days ago.

"Hello, doctor," she replied.

"Uh, oh, hello, doctor," she gaily answered.

"I've been waiting for that for two long days," Lewis explained to President Rowland Angell, of Yale, and Professor William Lyon Phelps.

Mayor Waxes Vitriolic In Describing Council

A very majority of city councilmen "hopped hell" at Mayor Key said yesterday, opposing the distribution to those who opposed distribution of $32,000 to various city departments for operating accounts.

By a vote of 29 against 4 for, city council Monday sustained Alvin C. Moore Hailey, presiding, in ruling out of order a motion providing for allocation of the sum. A council bill sought to apply the sum to reinstatement of 2.1-2 per cent of the 10 per cent now in force against non-school employees making $100 or more a month.

"Don't that crowd of knuckle heads want the police, fire, waterworks and other city departments to operate?" the state chief executive wanted to know.

"And do they want the indigent sick turned away from Grady hospital?"

"Those departments and others were provided for in the proposed allocation of the $32,000. There is barely enough even with the $32,000 to keep the city going. Any man or set of men who would oppose such a program and attempt to divert necessary appropriations haven't sense enough to get out of a shower of rain."

Georgia Organization of Disabled Opens 14th Meeting Today at Ansley.

Georgia Disabled Veterans of the World War will open their fourteenth annual state convention here tomorrow morning at the Ansley hotel, with the newly-arrived bonus expected to boost substantially the number in attendance.

Speakers at the first session, which begins at 10 o'clock, will be Mayor James L. Key, John M. Slaton Jr. of the federal veterans' administration, and Dr. W. C. Dobson, regional manager of the Federal veterans' hospital at Augusta.

Delegates will hold business sessions tomorrow afternoon, and tomorrow night will assemble for a dance to be sponsored by Betty Harrison Jones Chapter No. 1 of Atlanta.

Ladies attending the convention will visit Atlanta No. 48 tomorrow afternoon Saturday morning a school of instruction will be held for them under the direction of Mrs. Hetty B. Holifield.

Selection of officers at a banquet to be held Saturday night will close the convention.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN PLANNING BREAKFASTS

Feminine Leaders of Party To Discuss Campaign Strategy.

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—With one of the largest delegations of women ever to attend a national political convention expected to converge on Philadelphia next week, democratic headquarters tonight announced plans for a discussion of feminine campaign strategy over the breakfast cups.

Four "work breakfasts" will be held by the women's division of the national committee during the convention.

Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, will open the regional breakfasts Wednesday morning with a talk on "The New Deal and the Working Woman" before the women of the northeastern states.

Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, first woman democrat to be elected to congress, will talk on "Women's contribution to the women of the north-central states. Mrs. Norton's subject: "What the New Deal Means to Women Investors."

Miss Harriet Elliott, dean of women of the University of North Carolina, will also address this conference on "Women and the New Deal."

Friday morning, Mrs. Annie Dickie Olsen, director of the Minnesota State Emergency Council, and noted farm woman, will discuss "Farm Women and the New Deal" at a breakfast of the western and west-central delegations.

Senator Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas, will address the southern delegations at the Saturday breakfast on

"NEWS TO ME" KEY AVERS

Mayor Key yesterday characterized as "news to me" a report from Greensboro, N. C., that work will be resumed immediately on the Confederate memorial at the national cemetery.

Key is chairman of the Georgia Stone Mountain Memorial Commission. The Greensboro reports were that Victor G. McAdoo, judge advocate of the United Confederate Veterans, had announced that work is to be resumed within 90 days.

"It's news to me," Key said. "We don't even own the mountain yet, and acquisition of the property is the first step that must be taken."

NAVY PLANE CRASHES, TWO PERSONS KILLED

NORFOLK, Va., June 17.—(AP)—Three navy planes have crashed off almost simultaneously from the Norfolk naval air station early this morning.

What is believed to be the altitude of about 100 feet of one of the craft plunged to the earth, burst into flames, and two men were burned to death.

The dead are Lieutenant Charles K. Mallory, Bethesda, Md., pilot and commanding officer.

W. C. Gray, radioman, of Wharton, Texas.

BARNESVILLE VISITOR MYSTERIOUSLY STABBED

Mysteriously stabbed in the abdomen with a knife, a man listed as Romine B. Newman, 35, of Barnesville, was critically wounded and admitted to Grady hospital shortly before 10 o'clock last night.

He suffered a gash a foot long across the abdomen penetrating it, according to hospital officials.

Patrick J. Elliott, attached to the hospital, said the man told him he had left a luncheon on Decatur street, near Pryor, when a young white man approached, asking for a match.

Newman complied, he said, and the man suddenly drew knife. His assailant fled.

Members will broadcast a program over radio from the Bankhead hotel in Birmingham tomorrow, the hour to be announced. In addition to appearing before delegates at convention sessions tomorrow and Saturday, the band will also give concerts at several informal gatherings.

SEN. D. U. FLETCHER DIES IN WASHINGTON

family, W. L. Hill, secretary to the senator, and others.

Ready for Work.

The senator died at his home about 10:30 a.m. (Atlanta time) as he was preparing to leave for the capitol for another day of hard work. He apparently felt normal when he awoke, but after breakfast showed some distress and a physician was called. Only the physician and a maid were with him when he died, but Mrs. Fletcher and one daughter, Mrs. Nell Gordon, and other daughter, Mrs. T. J. Kemp, of St. Louis, was immediately notified.

Colleagues of the senator said during the prolonged battle he had made during recent weeks for the Florida canal undoubtedly contributed to his death.

For years he was instrumental in getting the original allocation for the huge canal project last year and had since defended it in and out of the senate.

He was genuinely disappointed when the Senate a few months ago refused his motion to appropriate additional money for it. Only two weeks ago, he fought the battle in the senate again and won. An amendment was added to the relief bill authorizing a new study of the canal and additional funds for it if the report should be favorable, but this was rejected by the house late today by a vote of 108 to 62.

Tribute by President.

President Roosevelt led in paying tribute to Senator Fletcher.

"The country has lost an able and conscientious servant in the death of Senator Fletcher," the chief executive said.

"As chairman of the great committee on banking and currency throughout a period of unprecedented financial upheaval, his steady influence was reflected both in emergency and in permanent legislation which rescued the country from utter collapse and de-simulation."

Among other comments were the following:

Senator Russell, of Georgia—"Senator Fletcher was born and reared in Georgia, and the people of my state will feel a keen personal loss. He literally won himself out in the public service and will be greatly missed in the councils of the nation."

Representative Caldwell—"His passing is an irreparable loss to his friends and to the state."

Representative Sears—"For more than a quarter of a century Duncan U. Fletcher has worked hard for Florida and the United States. He has left a record that will live on. Florida and his friends will miss him."

Representative Wilcox—"I am deeply grieved over Senator Fletcher's death. His service to his country has lost one of its ablest legislators. His place will be hard to fill."

Representative Peterson—"I have known Senator Fletcher well for many years. He was one of my first votes for him. He was practically grieved and feel that the nation and state have suffered a great loss, as well as his loved ones and friends."

Many senators, as they paid tribute to their colleague, remembered his work as chairman of the banking and currency committee since March 4, 1933.

Loftin disclosed that he had tried to persuade Senator Fletcher Monday to go home because he did not seem physically able to work, but the veteran legislator refused and "remained here steadfastly performing his duty to the last."

"In my Judgment," Loftin added, "he died as he wanted to die—in harness."

Other eulogies were in similar vein. Senator Borland of Idaho said:

"If ever a man sacrificed his life to his duties, it was Senator Fletcher."

"God knows we need more men like Senator Fletcher in the senate," Senator Norris, of Nebraska, said.

Statement by Farley.

In a statement, Chairman James A. Farley, of the democratic national committee, said:

"Few men have accomplished more than he did for the public good during his long years of public service."

Governor Dave Shultz, here for a two-day visit, said he was "grieved beyond expression" over Senator Fletcher's death, adding that he "died for the good of the state."

The governor declined to discuss the appointment of a successor.

Sen. D. U. Fletcher died in a paying tribute to Senator Fletcher.

Many senators, as they paid tribute to their colleague, remembered his work as chairman of the banking and currency committee since March 4, 1933.

And not an atom as in his harness. Senator Fletcher took charge of what became the most important committee in congress. He presided during the Peoria investigation of Wall Street and the big New York banking houses.

Then followed the most significant and technical legislation of the New Deal—banking laws, stock market control legislation, and the securities act.

New Deal Service.

More of the New Deal legislation went through Senator Fletcher's committee than any other in Congress.

He worked day and night and kept his committee in session almost continuously for two sessions of congress.

Fletcher was born in Sumter county, Georgia, January 6, 1859. He was educated at Vanderbilt University and practiced law in Jacksonville the next year.

In 1908 Senator Fletcher had served in the senate. He was the oldest member in point of service except for Senator Borah, of Idaho. The last time he ran, in 1932, he was nominated and re-elected without opposition.

Duncan U. Fletcher was born at Americus, Georgia, June 6, 1859, the son of Thomas Jefferson and Rebecca Ellen McCowan Fletcher.

His father served four years in the Confederate army in the rank of captain. At the close of the war he was promoted to the rank of colonel.

Duncan Fletcher worked on his father's farm and received his earliest education in the public schools of Monroe county, Georgia. He later attended Gordon Institute at Barnesville, Ga., and before completing his preparatory course he entered Vanderbilt University.

He performed the unusual scholastic feat of passing the two-year law course in one year and was admitted to the Tennessee state bar.

Immediately after receiving his license, he moved to Jacksonville and in 1881, opened his law office in partnership with J. M. Barrs, his roommate at Vanderbilt.

The firm continued for 4 years and then moved to Atlanta, where it became associated with John Wurtz, with whom he remained 10 years. Until 1908 Fletcher practiced alone before the state, federal and supreme courts.

Within three years after he came to Jacksonville, Fletcher was elected to city council, serving several years.

In 1892 he was elected to the Florida legislature and served through the session of 1893.

Before his term expired, he was elected mayor of the city of Jacksonville. He served for two years and was re-elected in 1894, but did not remain in office.

From 1904 to 1908 he was chairman of the state democratic executive committee. He became a candidate for the United States senate in 1908, opposing three others, and won his first contest.

During the World War he served as a captain in the National Guard and not as an officer as in his harness. Fletcher took charge of what became the most important committee in congress. He presided during the Peoria investigation of Wall Street and the big New York banking houses.

Your answer to this cartoon, together with your answers to the other six cartoons appearing in THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION during the week ending June 20 should be mailed or brought to THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION on or before midnight Saturday, June 27. Ten cents in coin must accompany each weekly series. In return for this remittance you will receive a master print of the week's featured cartoon at the conclusion of the contest.

THE RULES

1. The "GREAT NAMES" contest is open to every reader of The Atlanta Constitution being a bona fide resident of either the state of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama or Florida, with the exception of employees of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and members of their families and with the further exception of any person who has won $1,000 or more in any previous newspaper contest.

NOTE: You do not need to be a regular subscriber, you may purchase The Atlanta Constitution each day at your news stand.

2. Beginning Sunday, June 14, 1936, and continuing each day for 13 weeks, The Atlanta Constitution will publish a cartoon. The cartoon will in every case represent a name. The name may be that of a person, city, state, nation, book, song or motion picture.

3. The Atlanta Constitution will award a First Prize of $4,000 as part of $6,000 in prizes to the person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate names to each of the 86 cartoons and in all other ways conforming to these Official Rules. The person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate names to all 86 cartoons will be eligible for First Prize. The person or persons submitting the next nearest correct solution to the 86 cartoons will be eligible for the second and all these Official Rules shall be eligible for additional prizes in the order of the correctness of their answers.

4. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers. Just name the cartoon in accordance with the rules.

5. In case of tie, as many prizes will be reserved as there are persons tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more persons tie in naming the correct or most correct names to the 86 cartoons, the first two or more persons will be reserved for them and will be awarded in the order of the correctness of such contestants (without cost) to a second and, if necessary, a third or fourth series of cartoons. In the event of final tie, a prize identical with that tied for will be awarded to each tying contestant.

6. To expedite filing, answers or solutions in this contest should be submitted as follows: At the end of each week, during which a series of seven cartoons will have been published in THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, the contestant is requested to mail or wire the answers to the seven cartoons to the Great Names Editor, care of The Atlanta Constitution, in one unit. Solutions to this contest are to be submitted in a series of seven. The answers to the cartoons printed during any week may be submitted during the following week.

7. In order to qualify for a prize, the contestant is required to accompany each of the series of answers with a remittance of 10¢ in coin in payment for a special print of the week's featured cartoon, purchase of which is a condition for entering the contest. The special prints, suitable for framing, will be mailed to the contestant in one set, at the close of the contest.

8. Any person upon entering the contest, and by the submission of answers, agrees to accept as final the decision of The Atlanta Constitution and the contest editor in all cases affecting the conduct of the contest, the making of the awards, and procedure and policy, with regard to the acceptance of submissions during the contest.

9. Answer forms to which no names are signed will not be considered, nor will any claims to the ownership of such answers be recognized. The Atlanta Constitution will not be responsible for answers or communications usually delayed or lost in transit either from the contestant to The Atlanta Constitution or from The Atlanta Constitution to the contestant.

10. A contestant is permitted to submit as many sets of 86 solutions as he or she chooses; provided same are properly qualified and each will be submitted in a series, but no person will be awarded more than one prize. When submitting additional sets of answers, all series must be identified as sets A, B, C, etc.

REPUBLICAN DEMANDS F. D. R. TICKETS PROBE

Farley Denies Sending Out Letter Asking Postmasters' Aid in Financing.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—A denial by Postmaster General Farley that he had asked postmasters to sell $1 tickets for Roosevelt's renomination gathering today was followed by a demand by Representative Halleck, republican, Indiana, that a house committee make "a searching investigation."

Halleck said in a statement yesterday that he had a letter from a fourth class postmaster bearing Farley's signature, asking him to sell 25 "nomination" tickets. Farley said he had written a letter to the postmaster, but that he had asked him to "cancel the signature since I understand the letter carries. But if so, it was entirely without my knowledge or consent."

"The Postoffice Department has been particularly careful to warn postmasters to keep within the law in any political activities. The reason is that the postmasters who the newspapers said produced the letter was careful to avoid stating when or where it was mailed or by whom received, so that I have been unable to trace the letter."

CHINA PEACE PARLEY PROGRESSING SLOWLY

Nanking Continues To Move Troops and Planes Into Hunan.

NANKING, China, June 17.—(AP)—Peace negotiations between the Nanking (central) and the Canton (southern) governments of China are progressing slowly, officials said today.

"It is possible," he suggested at another point, "that some overzealous individual dreams of swelling the receipts from the meetings that will be held all over the country to listen to the speech of acceptance that will be delivered from Franklin field, Philadelphia, and that affords another stamp signature such as I understand the letter carries. But if so, it was entirely without my knowledge or consent."

A Tientsin dispatch said leading officers of the Japanese army in North China would confer there tomorrow "to consider the entire China situation."

The highest Chinese officials of North China also arrived in Tientsin, apparently to attend the conference if the Japanese call them in.

Chinese sources in Shanghai reported a "tense situation" at Swatow, Kwangtung provinces, with the arrival of six Japanese warships.

AMERICANS FIRED UPON IN ARAB JEWISH RIOTS

JERUSALEM, June 17.—(AP)—The rioters fired on a children's home in the American colony on the Plain of Sharon today, but the inhabitants escaped unharmed. A rain of bullets smashed the windows of the home.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

GRAYVILLE, Ill., Tuesday.—At 4 o'clock this morning Mrs. Helms' faithful Mary was gently touching my arm and announcing that it was time to get up. I imagine everybody knows the feeling you have when you know you have to get up early in the morning.

In spite of your determination to sleep, when the light begins to change at dawn you have a faint realization that the time left you is short. Strange to say, I was not half so reluctant to get up as I expected to be.

I packed as much as I could last night, making allowance that I might return from the coal mines so dirty I would have to change most of the things I had on. This proved a wise precaution.

Breakfast and on our way by 5 o'clock. For that time of day our traffic policemen out ahead seemed rather unnecessary, as we had the road to ourselves. We reached the Orient mine at West Franklin by 6:30. There is a superstition about letting women go down in a mine, so I stood where the men were going to work and watched them all load and go down.

Then we went over to the New Orient mine, and as that is not working we were able to go down and see something of this mine, which is said to be the largest in the world. It is certainly modern in every way, even to the landscaping around the office. I must say this countryside is far less grim looking than some other mine fields I have visited.

We had a second breakfast with Mr. Williams, the WPA district director, and Mrs. Williams. Then we drove to Harrisburg, where we visited the Trachoma clinic and saw the patients being brought in buses.

The transportation is furnished by the WPA and it has doubled the number of patients treated at the clinic. In consequence, the sum of money which must be spent yearly in pensions for the blind by the state and county has been greatly reduced.

I was also fortunate in seeing an exhibition of WPA women's and professional work at the high school. I get a feeling everywhere that these projects are gaining in importance and popularity in the communities where they are located.

The welcome and hospitality extended me everywhere in these small towns and villages makes one realize that no part of our country has a corner on hospitality. I have experienced it in pretty much every part of the country and it is always the same—simple and cordial, given from the depth of warm hearts.

—Back at Mrs. Helms' at 12 o'clock and then we drive to Indianapolis after lunch.

'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!'

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

SCREEN SINGERS ARE SLENDER

Prima donnas are watching their prima donnas. Singers are slimmer, and open the last stronghold of avoirdupois, has gone streamlined for the movies. The camera magnifies curves, and the stars must have good figures to register their high notes.

Gladys Swarthout's figure was made to order for the films, and she keeps in perfect form with healthy outdoor activity. This is beautifully proportioned opera singer would be IDA JEAN KAIN, screen star material if she couldn't sing a note, which is a decided contrast to the buxom order of divas.

Marion Tally's rounded curves have been reduced to slender, operatic proportions. She lost 30 pounds through a special diet and exercise. She looks ten years younger than she did two years ago and has a sparkle which she never had in her palest days at the opera. Her exercise plan includes stationary bicycling for the hip, thigh and calf muscles, rhythmic bicycling for the waistline, and play with a medicine ball for arms and shoulders. The vitamin-minded public will appreciate her voice much more with her new figure.

Lily Pons, who thrills movie-going audiences with her glorious voice, has a silhouette as slight as any school girl could desire. Miss Pons is one of the few opera stars who are just naturally slender. Her slimness is the type accompanied by high vitality.

The gorgeous Grace Moore has poise without avoridpouise. She demonstrated how to figure by making a depiction in one of her first films a struggling young singer whose rigorous program of physical exercise was part of her plan for success. If the exercise she performed for her throatline would make ours as beautiful let's start doing it! Stand up and turn your head over the right shoulder, let it back and to the nose, circling from one side to the other. This exercise should be performed rhythmically and joyously. The exercise with which she strengthened the muscles of her diaphragm will help you to achieve a flat front line. Lie on the floor, place large books on the abdomen, and raise and lower them with the abdominal muscles.

Mrs. Tally strengthens the muscles of the abdomen and diaphragm with this exercise:

Position: Standing erect, about a foot from the wall, hands clasping a bar in back.

Movement: Holding bar, pull forward while rising on toes. Hold position release. This movement lifts the abdominal muscles, diaphragm and chest.

You may not own a stationary bicycle, but you can go places, figuratively speaking, on an imaginary bike. This reliable exercise is illustrated in the set, "Hips, Hips—Away!"

Don't you think that these stars get their lovely figures along with their voices by special dispensation of lady luck. It isn't any easier for the stars to keep in trim than it is for you. However, their efforts are apt to be more consistent and the results better.

Modern Women Follow "THE BC WAY" to Quicker Relief

Women who use "BC" at the "trying time of the month" should also be used for ordinary headaches and backache, due to inorganic causes, find that it gives quicker relief. That is because the "BC" formula contains several quick-acting ingredients widely prescribed by physicians. "BC" should also be used for ordinary headaches, neuralgia, muscular aches, simple head cold pains, reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system.

"BC" contains no opiates or narcotics. Convenient 10c and 25c sizes.

Country Home on Cripple Creek Proves Popular With Atlantans

By Sally Forth.

ACH week-end Cripple Creek, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pew, is the rendezvous for prominent Atlantans enjoying the hospitality of these popular hosts. The home is appropriately named, as it sets on a sloping hillside beside a flowing creek that empties a mile down stream into the Chattahoochee river near Roswell.

The pine and maple wood of which the house is built served originally as the schoolhouse at Sandy Springs. When the school was torn down for the construction of a new school, the Smiths and Pews bought the lumber and had it moved to their farm on which they built their summer home. Age has turned the wood into a dark brown shade that harmonizes perfectly with the hundreds of green pines surrounding Cripple Creek.

The spacious living room, from which opens two bedrooms with connecting bath, and kitchen, presents a cool rustic appearance with its rustic furnishings. A stone fireplace, where burning logs add cheer and warmth to the early fall parties given by Cripple Creek's owners, occupies the center of one side of the living room. An old polished wagon wheel hangs as a chandelier from the center of the room. Red and white checked gingham curtains add an informal note to the interior.

Across the entire front of the house overlooking the creek is a screened porch, where cushioned chairs and swings provide comfort for guests. Breakfast, luncheon and supper are served always on the porch from a long table occupying one end of the veranda.

Atlanta's younger set also are enjoying week-end parties at Cripple Creek as guests of A. Q. Jr. and Jan, young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Smith. One huge bedroom, which houses nine army cots, is built under the porch, which is 12 feet high off the ground. Here the boys can don their bath suits and make a quick dash to the nearby swimming pool for an early morning dip or a final splash in the pool's waters before good-nights are said.

The youthful guests usually enjoy their repasts from a long table placed under the trees near the creek. On Sally's visit she overheard hilarious exclamations of ohs and ahs as supper was being served the youngsters spending the week-end at Cripple Creek.

Plans were discussed for the Fourth of July celebration, at which time members of the Habersham chapter will join with members of the Atlanta chapter for a joint observance of the day. A social program, including a revue of the charter of the chapter, which was unanimously accepted by the members.

Plans were discussed for the Fourth of July celebration, at which time members of the Habersham chapter will join with members of the Atlanta chapter for a joint observance of the day. A social program, including a revue of the charter of the chapter, which was unanimously accepted by the members.

An inspiring talk on "The Flag" was given by A. L. Henson, state veterans' service officer. He was introduced by George F. Stewart, adjutant of Post No. 1 of the American Legion. The musical program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Henry J. Baker, music chairman, who presented the Atlanta Marching Band, talented trumpet and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Stewart. Miss Stewart is known as the "Sweetheart of the American Legion" and has gained many admirers since her playing last fall at the Armistice Day ceremonies at Grant field. As a special tribute to Mrs. Speer, the regent, Miss Stewart played a solo, flares, signifying the military salute.

Officers of the chapter gave their reports, after which the following distinguished guests were introduced: Mrs. J. A. Childs, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. L. H. Shelly, of Eufaula, Ala.; Madame Rene Batignier, of Paris, France; Mrs. Margaret L. West, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Daisy P. Hirschfield, of Westerly, R. I.

Following the meeting, Mrs. T. A. Lutzschke, chairman of hospitality, and members of her committee served

"Who's bicycle?" queried Marjorie.

"Anne's," replied Anne's husband, Preston Arkwright Jr.

Marjorie looked somewhat nonplussed. The bicycle was far too big for her sister's young daughter, Anne Jr., and she was in a quandary as to what to be like.

Reading the doubt in her face, Preston explained: "I gave Anne the bicycle for her birthday. When she goes to the beach at Ponte Vedra next month, she won't have to, rent one."

"And when we get our new house on Peachtree," added

Miss Smith Weds William V. Edwards

A marriage of widespread social interest was that of Miss Martha Smith, of Jackson, to William Van Buren Edwards, of Griffin, which took place yesterday at 12 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Lieutenant and Mrs. Arthur Joel Copeland, of Fort McPherson. Rev. M. M. Maxwell, of Griffin, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The home was artistically decorated with fresh and dried flowers.

The bride wore a becoming tailored suit of navy triple sheer, featuring a fitted jacket with accessories to match. Her handkerchief was of hand-made lace, one used by her mother at her wedding. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Lieutenant and Mrs. Copeland entertained at a wedding breakfast. The bride and bridegroom left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and upon their return will reside in Griffin.

Lose Fat the Easy Way—Without Starvation, Diet, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

There is no mystery about this method. Doctors have been prescribing it for years. It is based on a scientific theory of the medical profession that excess fat in many cases is caused by a little gland that does not work well.

Every drop of our blood goes through this tiny gland sixteen times a day. It produces about one-half one-half drops of fluid every 24 hours. This fluid on the fluid in the blood is much the same as the action of a good draft on the burning of coal in a furnace. It turns on the "draft" that increases the speed with which food and fatty tissues "burn up."

If this gland doesn't pour out about one and one-half drops of its vital fluid a day, many people take on fat.

Doctors find a simple easy way to remedy this condition is to feed the substance it lacks. Then, many people get rid of the excess flesh that swells out their figures in ugly bumps and lumps.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method so generally used by doctors. Millions are using them with success. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory. Their formula is given in every package so you know what you're taking.

For over 10 years millions of fat people have found Marmola Prescription Tablets effective for the reduction of extra fat. Don't take chances with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Get a box of Marmola from your druggist today.

O. HENRY ENCORE

The Lost Works of W. Sidney Porter (O. Henry)

THE MIRAGE ON THE FRIOS

The sheep man rejected the offer of a match, and lit his pipe from a burning brand. We were down on Buffalo Bayou fishing, and had cooked and eaten supper. Fried fresh fish, coffee, corn bread, potatoes, and just enough ripe bacon to flavor gave us a supper at which none murmured.

We reclined at ease and worshipped the goddess Nicotine. The moon made a glory in the eastern sky and spread a white shimmering glamour upon the black water of the bayou. A phantom crept down stream, leaving a ghostly, wavering silver wake, and a mysterious lapping and washing along the unseeded shores. Mosquitoes hummed angrily about the borders of the hanging cloud of tobacco smoke. A dark fresh smell arose from bursting buds and wild flowers. We five sat in the chiaroscuro of the live oaks and cypresses, and babbled as most men and women will when night, the tongue loosener, succeeds the discreet day.

Night should be held responsible for poets, breach of promise suits, betrayed secrets and dull stories. The man who will not tell more than he knows in the moonlight of a spring night is a rarity. Four of us were more or less hardened to moonlight and roses: one among us was young enough to note the soft effect of Luna's kiss upon the dim tree tops, the aerial perspective of the drifting gulf clouds, and the dim white eyes of the dogwood blossoms peering out of the wooded darkness. He noted and spoke his thoughts without stint of adjectives, while we world-worn passengers grunted in reply; puffed at our cigars and pipes, and refused to commit ourselves on such trifling matters.

"Isn't it beautiful?" asked the young man. "The sky like the dome of some dream temple, the woods dark with mystery and the silence broken only by the faint breathing of nature." "It's nice, and no mistake," answered the insurance agent, "but let me tell you, I've known men to plant the seeds of incurable disease along this old bayou. Feel that dampness rising every minute? A fellow never knows what is going to happen. Especially a man with a family dependent on him should—" "Shut up," snapped the druggist. "For talking shop, recommend me to a man in your line. This is a pleasure trip we are on, and I have to have it spoiled by ringing in business. Talk about your malaris, why, two bottles of my?"

"There you go, just as bad," said the lawyer. "You fellows have run in the same old rut so long you can't get your minds on anything else. Put me on the witness stand, and I'll swear that I never mention my own business outside of my office; if I don't, kick me clean out of court."

"This night," said the sheep man, "reminds me of the night I was lost in the brush along the Frio. That was the night before the morning I seen the mi-ridge."

"The—ah—oh! the mirage?" said the young man.

"No," said the sheep man, "it wasn't a mi-ridge; this was a mi-ridge, and the plainest I ever seen. They happened somethin' queer about this, too, and I don't often tell it, after seein' that incredibleness generally waits upon the relatin' of it."

"Light up," said the druggist, reaching for the tobacco sack, "and let us have your yarn. There are very few things a man can't believe now-a-days."

"It was in the fall of '80," said the sheep man, "when I was runnin' sheep in La Salle county. There came a norther that scattered my flock of 1,500 mustangs to thunderheads. The shepherd couldn't hold 'em and they split up right and left, through the chaparral. I got on my horse and hunted all one day, and I rounded up the biggest part of 'em during the afternoon. I seen a Mexican ridin' along what told me they was a big 'ajo' of 'em down near the Palo Blanco crossin' of the Frio. I rode over that way, and when sundown come I was down in a big mesquite flat, where I couldn't see 50 yards before me any ways. Well, I got lost. For some four or five hours my pony stumbled around in the saculista grass, windin' about this way and that, without knowin' any more than I did where he was at." "Bout 12 o'clock I give it up, staked my pony and laid down under my saddle blanket to wait till mornin'. I was awful worried about my wife and the kid, who was by themselves on the ranch, for I knew they'd be scared to death. There wasn't much to be afraid of, but you know how women folks are when night comes, especially when they wasn't any neighbor in 10 miles of em."

"I was up at daylight and soon as I'd got my bearin's I known just where I was. Right where I was I seen the Fort Ewell road, and a big dead elm on one side that I knew. I was just 18 miles from my ranch. I jumped in the saddle, when all at once, looking across the Frio towards home, I seen this mi-ridge. These mi-ridges are sure wonderful. I never seen but three or four. It was a kind of misty mornin', with woolly gulf clouds a-flyin' across, and the hollows was all hazy. I seen my ranch house, shearin' pen, the fence with saddles hangin' on 'em, the wood pile, with the ax stickin' in a log, and everything about the yard as plain as if they were only 200 yards away, and I was lookin' at 'em on a foggy mornin'."

"Everything looked somewhat ghostly like, and a little taller and bigger than it really was, but I could see even the white curtains at the windows and the pet sheep grazin' round the corral. It made me feel good to see everything so close, when I knew I was 18 miles away. "All to once I seen the door open, and wife come out with the kids in her arms. It was all I could do to keep from hollerin' at her. You bet, I was

CROSSING THE ATLANTIC

IX—Passenger Service.

The Graf Zeppelin proved that an airship could wing its way across the Atlantic, and since its day there have been dozens of other airship crossings. One of the voyages was made in 1930 by another fine British airship, the R-100, which flew from England to Montreal in a little less than 70 hours. At the end of its 3,400-mile journey, it had five tons of gasoline left on board.

German airships, however, have kept up until last year, when the

Graf Zeppelin finished its flight

"Number 500." Not all, but many, of those flights were over the sea.

It had crossed the Pacific, the South Atlantic and the North Atlantic. Great would have been the joy of Count Zeppelin, German airship pioneer, if he had lived to see those ocean trips. As it was, the man in command was Dr. Hugo Eckener, with Ernst Lehmann as captain during some of the voyages.

The present spring has seen new steps toward passenger service across the Atlantic. On the pilot day of the past week, thousands of men, women and children gathered at Lakehurst, N. J., to watch a giant of the skies come down. The airship was the "Hindenburg," largest flying-machine ever built.</

Haas Sets Record In Southern Amateur

Sensational 139 Beats Old Mark by Two Strokes; Brown's 153 Leads Atlantans.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 17.—(AP)—Staging a record-breaking exhibition of sub-par golf, young Freddie Haas Jr., of Baton Rouge, La., a former champion, stroked his way to medalist honors today with a sensational 139 in the 36-hole qualifying for the southern amateur golf tournament.

The slender southern intercollegiate champion set a new qualifying score in the 34th renewal of the ancient tournament and established a record for the Memphis Country Club contest.

Haas, winner of the 1934 tournament at New Orleans, led the field by two strokes and climaxed his excellent assault on par with a 66, four under regulation figures, on the final round for the course record he won six birdies, five of which he collected on his 31 score on the final nine holes.

"Say, that's great," he exclaimed, when told he had broken the qualifying record of 141 made last year at Richmond, Va., by Johnny Morris, of Birmingham, Ala., who qualified today with 146.

The 18-year-old Haas, son of the finish record by two strokes was Henry Castillo, 20-year-old, Spanish-born lad from Panama City, Fla., whose sub-par 69 paced the first-round firing.

Castillo fought gamely down the stretch to overtake Haas, but his par 35 on the final nine was not good enough since he went two over on his outgoing shot, finished with 142 and equalled the newly shattered qualifying score made by Morris.

RIEGEL ILL. While the field of 158 battled through the final 18 holes for the 31 places in the championship flight in one of the fastest tournaments on record, Bobby Riegel, of Richmond, Va., suffered a severe pain at his hotel with a slight illness.

He was exempt from qualifying and insisted he would be all right for the start of match play tomorrow.

Six strokes behind the Louisiana sharpshooter were Earl Stokes, of Louisville, Ky., runner-up in the 1935 tournament; and Johnny Walsh, of Greenerville, Miss., a former Mississippi champion, with scores of 145.

Bracketed at 146 along with Morris was Mack Brothers, of Nashville, Tenn., who followed up an opening

Fight Broadcast At 9 Tonight

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—Details of the Louis-Schmeling fight on Thursday night will be carried by the coming WEAF-WJZ-NBC, starting at 9 o'clock, Atlanta time. Clean McCarthy and Ed Hill comprise the announcing team.

By Eddie Briez.

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—They'll offer up another sacrifice to the dynamite-laden fists of young Joe Louis at the Yankee stadium tomorrow night, with Max Schmeling, of Germany, as the victim.

The fight is billed for 15 rounds, but the sensational "Brown Bomber" from Detroit is an odds-on favorite to polish off the German as easily and perhaps speedier than he attended to Primo Carnera and Max Baer in the same arena last year.

All hope of another million dollar gate has been abandoned. Mike Jacobs, the promoter, still will show the nets $800,000, but last minute estimates are that the gallery will total no more than $60,000 and that the per capita will be $700.

New York may be set both in betting and ticket seeking for such a widely ballyhooed fight.

There is virtually no Schmeling money at odds of 8 to 1.

FOUR-ROUND KAYO.

What little wagering is being done in the Broadway books is that Louis will score a kaya in four rounds at even money; that Schmeling doesn't come up to the sixth heat at 8 to 5; that the bout does not go 10 rounds at 20 to 1 and that Louis wins by a sleep producer at 5 to 1.

Although ten special trains from Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Washington and Baltimore yards of New York today, the ticket brokers were fearful they would not sell even though there is an unexpected and unprecedented last-minute rush tomorrow.

Experts agree the failure to do a million dollar business can be attributed to three reasons: (1) an anti-Nazi sentiment of Schmeling; (2) the belief that Schmeling is a fast climber for the hard-hitting, fast-climbing Louis; and (3) that the top price of $40 is too high.

There isn't a Schmeling believer among the 800 newspaper men who will cover the event. Most of them figure the favored lad can knock the Teuton out whenever the idea occurs to him or he gets the "go" sign from his corner.

The consensus among the writers is Louis by a knockout in four rounds.

MAX CONFIDENT.

Schmeling's one asset is his confidence and physical condition. He has trained hard for a month. But he has shown on many occasions that his punches have lost their steam in five or six rounds and even his sparring partners predict he'll be a soft touch for Louis.

The Bomber, on the other hand, is the same sleek, well-trained fighting machine that belted Carnera and Baer back into the ranks of the also-rans.

The many stories emanating from his training camp to the contrary, Joe is as nearly perfect physically and mentally as it is possible for a fighter to be. His punches carry poison, he collects lusty blows from his spar mates without blinking an eye and his boxing is better.

Joe's handlers share the belief of the man in the street that he can name his own round and his own punch.

BATTLE OF "CORNERS."

It promises to be a battle of corners as well as of battles. Both camps have been blasting each other with charges of "trickery." Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's pilot, and Jack Blackburn, crafty old trainer of Louis, will be watching like hawks, ready to yell their heads off at the first suspicion of anything questionable.

Jacobs cut a wide figure yesterday when he asked the New York State Athletic Commission to order the fighters' hands to be bandaged in the ring instead of the dressing rooms.

He insisted that in some of his previous fights Louis' handlers have used more than the two feet of tape called for in the rules.

Commissioner John J. Phelan said the commission's rules require the bandaging to be done in the dressing room under the supervision of a commission representative and both fighters' managers or seconds.

BOOST TO TRADE.

Experts say the fight will cause $2,000,000, exclusive of money paid or tickets, to be poured into the New York area with hotels, railroads, theaters and restaurants the principal gainers.

A last-minute shift in plans found Schmeling spending tonight at his Napanoch training camp. He'll motor here tomorrow morning with Jacobs and Trainer Max Machon. The weighing-in at noon, will be conducted at the hippodrome.

The German did five miles of road work this morning, spent the afternoon tramp shooting and card playing and took in a movie tonight.

He said he feels like a two-year-old and is not the least worried about tomorrow night's outcome.

Louis loafed around Lakewood, N. J., putting with a new set of golf clubs and playing the harmonica. He will come to New York in the morning.

REESE REACHES QUARTER FINALS OF NET TOURNEY

Atlanta Defeats Norman Bickel in 3rd Round of National Clay Meet.

RIVER FOREST, Ill., June 17.—(UP)—Six favorites in the national clay court tournament, led by Frankie Parker, Lawrenceville, N. J., seeded No. 1, advanced into quarter-finals today, all with comparatively easy victories.

Reese, first-round doubles matches were played late today with no major upset.

In belated third-round singles matches, Billy Reese, Atlanta, Ga., seeded fifth; Robert Riggs, Los Angeles, and Bernard Welsh, Washington, D. C., went into the fourth round. Reese defeated Norman Bickel of Illinois, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2. In the doubles, Reese and Guy Cheng lost to George and Russell Ball, of Evans-ton, Ill., 8-6, 6-2.

WARREN, STEEL CLASH TONIGHT

The Warren Company, City league leader, and winner of the first half honors, meets the Atlantic Steel nine, the leader of the Commercial league and first place winner to date of the Warren athletic field at 8:30 o'clock.

In two previous meetings the Warren Company has defeated Atlantic Steel, 12 to 3 and 8 to 5, the first game having been played on the Dixie diamond and the latter on the Warren field. This will be the first time that the two teams have met under the lights and there should be a much closer score in the offering, as both teams have strengthened considerably.

Leonard Mayo, star hurler for the Dixie steel boys, will probably pitch for the refrigerator nine, while Ed Copeland, former Oglethorpe athlete, will be on the mound for the Warren Company.

Lineups for the game will be as follows:

Strangler Lewis Beats Young Orville Brown

Ed (Strangler) Lewis, in better condition than he has been for a long time, and demonstrating the same power with his famous headlock that brought him two world's championships, conquered Orville Brown in the feature bout on Matchmaker Speer's card at Ponce de Leon Park Wednesday night.

Lewis was unable to return for the third and deciding fall after each grappler had won one.

Dick Raines was entirely too rough for Eddie Newman in the semi-final, taking the only fall in 14 minutes by June 19 with William J. Bingham, of Harvard University, to compete in the semi-final Olympic track and field tryouts in Cambridge, Mass., June 26-27.

In announcing this today Robert A. Fetzer, president of North Carolina Athletic Association, and Orlon, Inc., in this section, said the men who placed first, second and third in the following Dixie meets were eligible to enter the eastern semi-finals.

Regional Qualifiers Must File by June 19

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 17.—(AP)—All qualifiers in the five regional meets in the southern and southeastern district must file their registration by June 19 with William J. Bingham, of Harvard University, to compete in the semi-final Olympic track and field tryouts in Cambridge, Mass., June 26-27.

In announcing this today Robert A. Fetzer, president of North Carolina Athletic Association, and Orlon, Inc., in this section, said the men who placed first, second and third in the following Dixie meets were eligible to enter the eastern semi-finals.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady and 10 points higher at 12.50.

NEW ORLEANS, June 17.—(P)—Upward, still upward, was the theme song of the cotton market today, as prices gained from 7 to 15 points in active trading.

The cumulative advance that has been made since the market again in evidence as the trade bought near and new crop positions eagerly.

July was in the van of rising prices today, the first time in some session that this relatively stabilized position had broken out of its trading rut, and spot cotton reached 75 cents a bale to close at 11.90.

Flour did not end as good as October finished at 11.31, December at 11.20 and January at 11.29, average net gains of 35 cents a bale.

Even a potentially bearish weekly report failed to quell the current bullish enthusiasm. Stimulating the advance were a variety of bullish developments. Cables were good, Liverpool adopting a constructive attitude on the current cotton situation. Reports that some foreign buyers had come to the market and the healthy demand continuing for cotton goods also aided prices.

Action of the July option continued the attention of the trade today. Despite the fact that the cotton pool continued to liquidate large blocks of the July option in New York, it met an excellent demand and was on the up-grade the entire session.

Port receipts, 4,701; week, 32,624; season, 6,962,796; last season, 4,382,001. Exports, 31,408; week, 60,216; season, 5,021,616; last season, 4,623,454. NEW YORK JULY SHOWS STRENGTH

NEW YORK, June 17.—(P)—The feature in cotton today was the strength of the July position which sold up to 11.95, or 20 points net higher than 11.78. Later months were as active as the firm with the general market closing steady at net advances of 10 to 13 points for the day.

Vol Manager Sees Team At Top

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 17.—(UP)—Atlanta's cruel Crackers again have demonstrated their ability to play well from the field. The Lancer Richbough, one, still isn't satisfied, it will be a one-team Southern association race all the way.

He holds to his optimism despite the fact this second-place Nashville Vols have two regulars out with injuries, the ace hurler is ailing, and the team hitting finally has started dropping. "We'll be all right," the Lancer said today, "as soon as Byron Speer gets over his sprain and Bill Rodda's foot gets well."

Coker Triplett, sensational Rookie outfielder, also is out with a back injury and will be idle about a week. His mark stands at .376.

The team's batting average reads .319, the lowest it has been since the season began, and the club has lost five of its last seven contests.

But Richbough sees a rainbow in the baseball sky even if Atlanta recently did climb from its low point, a three and a half-game lead, up to seven games.

"Our pitchers just now are rounding into shape," he explained. "J. J. Haas, in one of his team's games back into the lines with the pitchers in form. And don't forget Little Rock, Birmingham and New Orleans—they will all give Atlanta plenty of trouble before the pennant is won."

day 74 with a 72 second round. Morris, after a fine 71 for the first 18 holes, needed 75 for the final 18 holes.

Along with the record established by Haas came another when it took scores of 153 or better to gain the championship flight. Last year scores of 159 qualified.

PERRY FAILS.

The heated pace in the qualifying struggle saw the present champion, Sam Perry, Birmingham, the Alabama champion and the nation's leading scorer at 138 in the sectional qualifying for the national open, slip badly on his second round and fail to qualify.

The veteran amateur, winner of the southern crown in 1929 and 1932 and runner-up to Haas in 1934, took a 10-stroke beating from par for an 80 today and an aggregate of 157.

Another former champion, Cheston Harris, of Memphis, who had clinched the southern field in 1931 at Chattanooga, finished seventh in the qualifying list with 147, putting together rounds of 75-72, one stroke back was Warren Smith Jr., of Gadsden, Ala.

Scores of other Atlantans were: Dan Sage, Jr., 157; Jack Bothamly, 159; Carroll Latimer, 157; Crawford Rainwater, 160, and Elliott Haas, 165. Barely getting into the championship play was another former winner of the southern crown, Glenn Crisman, of Houston, who ousted the field for the title in 1925.

ATHLETES LEAD.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., June 17.—(UP)—Scholarship figures released today by J. ## NORGE SETS THE PACE

NORGE ORIGINATED 30 OF THE MOST IMPORTANT FEATURES IN MODERN REFRIGERATION

THE ROLLATOR cold-making mechanism—introduced in 1926.

MODERN STYLING—introduced in 1932.

COMPLETELY SEALED ICE COMPARTMENT—introduced in 1926.

And 27 other outstanding features. Norge set the pace in the past. Norge sets the pace today. Norge will set the pace in the future.

In selecting your refrigerator look to the mechanism. Be sure the compressor is big and powerful enough to meet hot weather needs. Ask the size of the motor. The plus power in the Norge motor means it runs less time, uses less current, cuts current costs.

Only Norge has the Rollator cold-making mechanism. Using little current, it gives positive protection for foods no matter how hot your kitchen may get. Every part of the Norge reflects the superlative quality of its mechanism. Convenience features save time and effort. See the Norge before you buy.

OMAHA FAVERED TO TAKE ASCOT

By Gayle Talbot.

ASCOT, England, June 17.—(AP)—William Woodward's Omaha, greatest son of Gallant Fox, tomorrow will bid for the Ascot gold cup, a half mil' o' the wisp no American-owned thoroughbred ever has won.

Despite the failure of all earlier invaders, including Reigh Count in 1929, in this particular classic, Woodward's four-year-old tonight was an odds-on favorite to outrun the field over the course of two and a half miles, a half mile more than the chestnut ever had been asked to negotiate.

Reports that Omaha had shown a phenomenal burst of speed in a final workout, made the 1935 American three-year-old king more pronounced a choice than ever. For the purse of $50,000 pounds sterling (about $25,000).

Prospects tonight were that ten British and French thoroughbreds would dispute the issue with Omaha. Outstanding among these were Lord Stanley's fine filly, Quashed, and Lord Gianetti's Buckleby.

The other probable starters include Sir Abe Bailey's Robin Goodfellow and Valerius; Sir Charles Hyde's Duplicate; J. A. C. Rousch's Patriot Baron Edouard; Sir Randolph's Chaudiere and Bobbie; Lieutenant Colonel Giles Loder's Fairbairn, and M. E. De St. Alary's Samos 2d. Pat Beasley again will ride Omaha.

Hagood Damns World War Heads As He Writes Preparedness Book

Retired General Visits Atlanta, Describes Inefficient Supply to Troops.

A book not only telling how to carry on a war but describing the manner in which the United States army should be organized for best efficiency, is being prepared by Major General Johnson Hagood, retired army officer.

General Hagood visited Atlanta yesterday and gave an inkling of what the book will contain. For one thing, it will offer a plan for greater efficiency which was exercised during the last war, he intimated.

"We spent a billion and a half dollars in the last war on airplanes, and an American pilot in France never flew a plane that was not borrowed from the allies," the general declared.

"We spent a billion dollars on armored cars, but not a shot was fired in France," he said.

"We had five times as much motor transportation as the rest of the world put together, yet we had to borrow other trucks from somebody else in France."

"In the closing days of the war we sent over more than 200,000 men who did not have the faintest idea of how to use their weapons."

Taken broadly, the book will seek to demonstrate that national defense can be secured with an efficiency not heretofore attained and at an amazing saving to taxpayers.

General Hagood is remembered as the high-ranking army officer who termed WPA funds "stage money" and was temporarily relieved of his command for his criticisms. He retired from active army service in 1933 following his retirement.

His book, now in the process of preparation, will draw its material from more than 25 years of actual experience and research into army organization methods.
